Workshops with Trainers: Collaborating Towards a Prejudice-Free Society

1. DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT

Work Package 2 of the Pride EDU project consisted of a series of awareness-raising and capacity-building activities designed to promote LGBTQIA+ inclusion, sexual health education, and youth engagement. The events combined interactive workshops, creative co-construction sessions, and community-driven initiatives.

First Phase: Sexual Health Awareness Session (February 13, 2025)

In partnership with a CEGIDD (Free Information, Screening, and Diagnosis Center) professional, we organized an open discussion on sexual health, STI prevention, and the importance of testing, regardless of sexual or romantic orientation. This session allowed participants to address stigma, ask questions, and reflect on inclusive healthcare practices.

Attendance: 11 engaged participants.

Outcome: A successful session that motivated participants to join the Sidaction campaign, where they helped run an awareness booth on March 22, 2025 (Place de la Victoire).

Second Phase: Immersive Co-Creation Weekend (April 5-6, 2025)

After logistical challenges (scheduling, venue availability, and facilitator coordination), we held a two-day workshop focused on LGBTQIA+ empowerment. Despite some last-minute cancellations, the event fostered a safe, restorative, and creative space for queer youth.

It was Led by an educator from Le Girofard, a Media Professional who work on queer content (Estelle - Stella Maurice), a drag family (Familiips) and a queer illustrator artist (Marie-Lou Duret)

LUNCH

Third Phase 06/04/25 13:00 - 15:00 | Activity 5 – Roundtable & Brainstorming

- Identifying current challenges and proposing solutions through collective discussion.

3. QUESTIONNAIRE FINDINGS

To evaluate the effectiveness of the workshop and measure participant satisfaction, Evaluation was conducted orally to encourage dialogue and anonymously (via paper forms) to ensure honest feedback.

Key takeaways:

- Engagement: High levels of participation in discussions and creative tasks.
- Inclusivity: Participants reported feeling respected and safe to express themselves.
- Impact: Appreciation for the innovative format (drag workshop, podcasting) and relevant content.

4. CONCLUSION

The Pride EDU Work Package 2 activities proved to be a resounding success, with participants demonstrating high levels of engagement, curiosity, and enthusiasm across all sessions. The combination of interactive workshops, creative co-construction, and open discussions created a dynamic learning environment where young people felt empowered to explore gender and sexual diversity, sexual health, and LGBTQIA+ inclusion in depth.

Participants actively contributed to debates, asked insightful questions, and immersed themselves in hands-on activities such as the drag culture workshop, podcast recording, and awareness campaign design. The content, which was new and thought-provoking for many, provided them with valuable knowledge that they described as both enlightening and practically useful in their daily lives.

Feedback collected through oral exchanges and anonymous surveys was overwhelmingly positive, reinforcing the need for safe, inclusive spaces where LGBTQIA+ youth can learn, express themselves, and connect. Many highlighted how the mix of theory, personal storytelling, and creative expression made the workshops not only educational but also deeply engaging and even transformative.

Beyond knowledge-sharing, these sessions strengthened community bonds and inspired participants to take action—whether by joining the Sidaction campaign, advocating for more inclusive schools, or simply feeling more confident in their identities.

Key Takeaways for Future Work:

- Continued education on LGBTQIA+ issues and sexual health remains essential—participants expressed a desire for more frequent and expanded workshops.
- Creative formats (drag, podcasts, collaborative campaigns) enhance engagement and should be prioritized.
- Logistical challenges (scheduling, facilitator availability) must be addressed to ensure consistent access for queer youth.

This phase of Pride EDU has laid a strong foundation for future initiatives, proving that inclusive, youth-driven education fosters both personal growth and collective progress. Moving forward, we will build on this momentum to create even more impactful programming—because when young LGBTQIA+ voices are heard and valued, real change begins.
